PANEL IS DRAWN FOR GRAND JURY

The drawing of the grand jury panel ook place at 10 o'clock yesterday orning in the county clerk's office in the city and county building and was attended by Deputy County Clerk Farnsworth, in the absence of County Clerk Eldredge, who is out of the city. County Attorney Hanson and County Treasurer Groesbeck also attended the drawing of the jury.

The first name drawn was that of Hyrum Mounteer of Union. Judge Armstrong approved the list, but has fixed no date for the return of the venire. It will unquestionably be Monday, however, and by the last of the Cave Drug Store and Marriott week it is expected the jury will be Yesterday T. H. Knott, who recently purchased the grocery business of the ber of the B. & G. association, though representatives of that organization have repeatedly asked him to join, and that he has had considerable trouble in purchasing goods in large quantities from local wholesalers.

"I can buy twenty-five sacks of sugar at a certain price from the local wholesalers. I have the money in the bank to buy a carload of sugar, and no wholesale company will let me have a worst.

Mr. Knott and other independent grocers claim there is plenty of room for a grand jury inquiry into the manner in which sugar is handled from the factories here to the consumers. The three sugar companies have recently organized and entered into an amalga- ed as follows: say spells "trust."

There has been considerable talk of an investigation in the local coal situation. The Commercial club will this week some time issue a report of its work in looking into the situation after onferences with local mine operators. It is understood the board of directors will lay a good deal of the blame for the present high prices of coal at the door of the railroads in Utah. The members of the board are not willing o say that their report will claim the existence of a trust among the local wholesalers or the retailers, but there is considerable talk of a grand jury investigation into the rumors that have been current all summer. There is little question but that the illeged combinations existing among the grocery and meat wholesalers here and the retail grocers and butchers will be the first thing to be taken up by the grand jury, and it is hard to tell where the inquiry will end

FRUIT GROWER IS SUED. Canning Company Brings Action to Enforce Contract.

A suit has been brought against Ezra V. Steed by the Wasatch Orchard company to enforce a sale of this year's crop of peaches as per agreement. It is customary with the canning factories to contract with growers at the first of the season for a certain amount of fruit at a certain price, to be delivered at crop time. This is to permit the canning companies to plan their season's business with some to plan their season's business with some idea as to prices and extent of production, etc. It is charged that the great advance in prices being paid by outsiders has tempted raisers to evade the provisions of their contracts with the canning factories and sell at the higher prices of the late season. TEACHERS' MEETING ENDS. Institute Is Concluded and Assignments Made for Year.

Yesterday was the fourth and closing day of the county teachers' institute. Professor Mosiah Hall's lecture yesterday morning was one of the best things of the institute. He had for his theme "The Relation of Device to Method," and treated this novel subject in a most thorough, interesting manner. At the conclusion of the lecture Superintendent T. E. McKay and Primary Supervisor Miss Matilda Peterson held an informal reception to the visiting teachers, serving light refreshments. The session came to a close as a social gathering. The visitors were earnest in their expressions of appreciation of the treatment accorded them during the institute and all agreed that better acquaintance and good feeling had been made possible among them.
